Hongkong, Wednesday Evening. Owing to the large arrival of both Bengal and Malwa Opium, the market has been very dull to-day and declining. The market for New Patna opened at $6364, cash to foreigners at which price transaction have been to having ceased on the 31st December last. extent of about 50 or 60 chests. The Drug has also changed hands at $6371 to ing rates may be taken as 86374 to $640. There has been some business doing in Seventh sales | ness, and sign the Firm. at $640, on time closing at $642½. Benares has been in only moderate request at $6224 to $625, with more sellers than buyers. There has been nothing done in Malwa since the arrival of the mail steamer, and it may be quoted at $745 to $750, at which rate it is expected to open. There has been little improvement in the other markets. The large arrivals of raw staple by the Indian steamers has to day made the market rather dull and languid, and there has been little comparatively doing; it is hardly probable, however that this will prove anything more than temporary, and that present prices will suffer any material decline, since the Chinese demand appears to be far from satisfied as yet. There has been little doing in Piece Goods. The Varonica arrived this afternoon with a general cargo from London, but this and the three arrivals of yesterday, and this morning will add little to the present stock of goods here, as a large propertion of their cargoes, especially of plain Cotton. has already been placed to arrive. A rumor has been afloat that the Solent had badly damaged her cargo, but there appears to be no foundation for this other than the fact that she experienced rather bosterous weather during her passageout. Her hatches have not yet been removed nor bulk broken. Sales to day, embrace 1000 prices 219.00, 800 pieces Brocade Lustres at 37.79, 5 this day. pieces Dyed Spots at 14.50, 570 bales Bengal Cutton at $20.75 to $21.00, and 150 bales Bombay at $20.00 to $22. Austria, in fact, now contains a population of about 35,000,000. and is the equal; therefore, so far, of the most powerful European Monarchies. If this population were homogeneous; Austria would be strong: but it is not so, and Austrian statesmen have vainly endeavoured, by a variety of political stratagems, to create the much-covetted strength. The provinces will neither combine in effecfive confederacy, mor follow any leader after the fashion of a Monarchy. They would not consent to be attached to Austrian Germany. Hungary. Nevertheless, as Hungary contains EUROPE. 10,000,000 of the whole population, while no tit 681. Hongkong, 12th March, 1867 on this central mass; but then it happens, unortunately, that Hungary itself, when viewed in this aspect, is no more homogeneous than Austric itself. Of its 10.000,000 inhabitants ant above one half are Magyars or genuine Hungarians, the Kingdom being swelled by annexed principalities with nationalities of their own. The Croats, for example, count for a million and a half in the population, and they. as was seen in our last impression, are by no incans satisfied with the prospect of affaire. It is a grave question, in short, whether the Binperor, in at length acceding to the terms of the Hungarians, may not be furnishing his other subjects with reasons or pretexts for discontent. DARNARD. WILSON & Co This doubt pervades every sentence of the Imperial Speech, and is but thinly veiled by professions of confidence in the patriotism and discretion of the United Parliament. The Emperor obviously anticipates opposition. though he wisely deprecates factions policy and finitless quarrels. He might have added, indeed, that this new system of Administration has only been accepted after the failure of all other experiments, and that it represents the last hope of establishing the Monarchy anew in the proportions of its ancient power. For the rest, nothing can be more admirable than the sentiments expressed. The Emperor alludes with manly frankness to the recent calamities of the Monarchy, but generously dismisses all thoughts of revenge. He desires only to settle the Monarchy on a solid basis, and thus to secure the independence of the State and the respect of Europe. In this attempt he will have the sympathies of foreign nations, as well as the cordial support of the Hungarian people. It is for the general interest that Austria should be strong, tranquil, and prosperous.
